Judge sets precedent with Bernardo ruling

A judge has ruled the public can watch Paul Bernardo's evasive jail-house interview with police right from their own TV and computer screens as the schoolgirl killer denies slaying Elizabeth Bain.

"It's a good day overall for freedom of expression rights and for the public's ability to know what's going on in our courts ... particularly to make use of websites and the Internet to be able to find out ... what's going on in the criminal cases," media lawyer Iain MacKinnon said after the ruling yesterday.

"It is precedent setting. I'm not aware of any other cases where video or audio (exhibits filed with the court) has been posted on a media website."

Feeling the crunch

Higher gas prices affecting lifestyle

Dear Lord, please grant us lower gas prices.

That's the silent prayer being offered at the Peace Lutheran Church in Mississauga, where Pastor Svante Olson speculates that high gas prices are affecting Sunday turnout. Over the last few weeks, attendance has been hitting all-time lows.

"We were averaging about 46 in attendance; (now) with this scam of gas prices, we've been in the mid-30s," Svante said. "And it's certainly not my preaching."

From churches and charities to your pizza delivery guy, everyone is feeling the gas and oil crunch as prices continue to clamber toward $1.40 a litre.

On Friday, the Toronto Ride program, which transports elderly clients to medical appointments, voted to increase fees for the first time in four years, says the group's director Sarah Singh.

"It's incredibly difficult. But with the gas the way it is — and we're getting wind it could be $1.50 by late summer — we had to," she said.

The committee voted to increase fees by 20 per cent in the near future. Right now, a five-kilometre ride costs about $4.50 and a 10-kilometre ride is about $7.50.

Meals on Wheels is another organization affected by the rising price of gas. In B.C., the Victoria Meals on Wheels announced last week that after 35 years — thanks to gas prices — it was closing down for good.

Here in the GTA, things aren't quite as bad, but they may soon be heading in that general direction.

Toronto 18 mole testifies

Paintball simulated battle situations for group: Witness

They were supposed to be like the "Mujahedeen in Chechnya," so they followed a simple diet of canned tuna and pita bread.

Their paintball games were designed to mimic the "battlefield," so they played games in which they were instructed to kill the non-believers.

And they wanted to show they were "serious," so they made a video that was to be sent to "the leadership of Afghanistan" and to imams in Toronto who were "sympathetic" to their cause.

Those were just some of the activities alleged members of a homegrown terror in the words of alleged leader

» "Front Street will definitely be taken care of," Shaikh recalled the alleged leader saying and pointed out the CSIS and CBC offices in Toronto are on that same bustling downtown street. "Two birds with one bomb."

cell participated in when they attended a so-called terrorist training camp, the Crown's star witness said yesterday when he testified for the first time in open court.

"We weren't there picking daisies, that's for sure," said Mubin Shaikh, a police mole who infiltrated the Toronto 18 and gained the trust of its alleged ringleader.

"There was clear, overt, military context to the training," said Shaikh.

The 32-year-old began his much anticipated testimony in a Brampton court by revealing how he was tasked by authorities to infiltrate the group. It was later busted during a massive police sweep in the summer of 2006 that netted 14 adults and four youths. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Recycling program showing results

Despite the griping over Toronto's new recycling program, the city's director of collection services says early monitoring results show it's a success.

The first 100,000 households to receive the bins recycled 10 per cent more between February and May than they did last year, Robert Orpin said yesterday. "We're ecstatic. This is what we envisioned with our program."

"We're attributing it to the fact that we made recycling somewhat easier for people with the bins," Orpin said, noting residents can now dump all their recycling into one container, with wheels to make it easier to move and a lid to make it neater.

The first homes assessed are in Scarborough, which began getting the new blue bins in December.

bin orders

» Of the 70 per cent of Scarborough households that have so far placed orders for one of the four sizes of new grey wheeled garbage bins, 40 per cent opted for the smallest, 75 litres. Some 30 per cent ordered the medium bin, 20 per cent the large and 10 per cent the extra large.

Some 400 homes have been emptied from using the bins, mostly in dense neighbourhoods where it's hard to store them.

Random delays hit TTC, GO

RUSH HOUR A random series of delays on GO and TTC trains made yesterday's early morning hours anything but rushed for frustrated travellers.

Subways were delayed throughout morning rush hour due partly to jammed signal boxes damaged by humidity. Signal problems on the southbound tracks south of Bloor caused slow movement of those trains. And signal problems on the westbound tracks west of Victoria Park caused similar delays for commuters there.

A medical emergency, in which a woman apparently collapsed on a train near Lawrence station, delayed the Yonge line for about 40 minutes. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Convention, exhibit to celebrate art of tattoos

On the first-ever episode of The Simpsons, Bart appalls his long-suffering mom Marge by getting a tattoo at the mall.

The episode aired Dec. 17, 1989, nearing the end of an era when tattoos could legitimately be said to be shocking. Today, they have become a fashion accessory.

Starting Friday at 2 p.m., aficionados who still swear by skin art will flock to the upscale Toronto Hilton for the Northern Ink Xposure tattoo convention running this weekend, some eager to get tattooed by a roster of celebrity artists famous for inking the likes of Kid Rock.

In tandem with the event, an exhibition of tattoo illustration starting today at the Museum of Canadian Contemporary Art on Queen Street West will bill tattoo as a form of living art.

Ex-husband charged

Police rule out suicide in woman's death

After a four-month investigation into the mysterious death of 32-year-old Edyta Lewandowski, police have finally ruled out suicide and charged her ex-husband with her murder.

Donald Sneyd, 48, rested his hands atop interlaced fingers in a College Park courtroom yesterday while waiting to make his first appearance in front of a judge after police charged him with first-degree murder.

Sneyd called 9-1-1 from his home on Feb. 25 to report his former wife and mother of their two-year-old son was slumped against the front door in his foyer — a bullet in her head and a gun by her side.

Since that time, detectives, who have described this investigation as atypical because of the length of time it was taking to sort out, had been interviewing witnesses, poring over the pattern of blood spatter on the walls where Lewandowski died, and waiting for results of extensive forensic tests.

Early yesterday, at police request, Sneyd turned himself in at 55 Division, officers said.

Livent numbers 'shocked' new VP

It took months for Livent's chief financial officer to work up the courage to disclose the company's longtime accounting fraud to one of its new bosses, and when she did he was "completely shocked," a court heard yesterday.

Maria Messina decided to tell Robert Webster, Livent's recently named executive vice-president, about accounting irregularities in August 1998 when she was asked to prepare a report on construction costs for a Chicago theatre, she testified at the fraud trial of Livent founders Garth Drabinsky and Myron Gottlieb.

In previous weeks, Messina testified, she had convinced Drabinsky and Gottlieb to allow her to report the real numbers for the first quarter of 1998. She said she hoped it was enough to quietly put an end to the widespread accounting fraud she had discovered a year ago. "I soon realized that it wasn't," the chartered accountant told prosecutor Alex Hrybinsky yesterday.

Aboriginals look to life after today's federal apology

Castile Troy will be among the crowd gathered in front of a large screen on Parliament Hill today to witness the federal government apologize for its role in decades of abuse and cultural alienation in Aboriginal residential schools.

But while she joins other Aboriginal women in singing and drumming away the painful past, the executive director of Minwaashin Lodge in downtown Ottawa will also think of the women who show up on her doorstep every day crying for a way out of poverty now.

"They are multiple oppressed, if you want to call it that," Troy said of the First Nations, Inuit and Métis women who seek programs and emergency shelter at Minwaashin Lodge.

So Troy and other staff at Minwaashin Lodge will take today to celebrate and reflect, but tomorrow they return to dealing with the poverty that still plagues Aboriginal communities across Canada.

New Democrat MP Charlie Angus said today's apology is about preventing future horrors.

"(It is) to ensure that this kind of negligence could never be allowed to happen again," Angus said yesterday. "We have to learn our lessons."

Afghan projects unveiled

The military expects new insurgent attacks focused on three major aid projects it plans to complete before leaving Kandahar in 2011.

The projects are the centerpiece of an aid plan that will increase Canada's total assistance to Afghanistan by about $600 million.

The strategy involves the military playing a supporting role in efforts to refurbish one of Kandahar's main irrigation dams, build, repair or expand 50 schools in the province, and vaccinate 350,000 Kandahar children under the age of five from polio.

The announcement is the long-awaited response to a January report that recommended overhauling Canada's work in Afghanistan.

A $50-million, three-year plan to clear silt and repair valves at the Dahla Dam in Arghandab district has actually been in the works for 15 months. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

U.S. president on farewell tour of Europe

U.S. President George W. Bush claimed progress yesterday in his legacy-shaping drive to stop Iran from developing a nuclear bomb, winning European promises to tighten pressure on Tehran with United Nations sanctions and possibly other new penalties.

Bush, attending the final United States-European Union summit of his presidency, is working against time to secure one of the top foreign priorities of his presidency: Halting Iran's presumed ambition to join the global club of nuclear-armed countries and vastly increase its influence and reach.

"If they end up with a nuclear weapon, the free world is going to say, 'Why didn't we do something about it at the time, before they developed it?'" Bush said at the opening of a weeklong farewell tour of Europe.

"Now is the time for there to be strong diplomacy," the U.S. president said.

Surprise end to rate cuts

Market expected quarter-point drop

background

» In April, the Bank of Canada slashed its key rate by half a percentage point for the second time in eight weeks. And governor Mark Carney signalled all spring that further rate reductions were coming.

The threat of stagflation looms larger for Ontarians as an inflation-wary Bank of Canada suddenly backed off its policy of cutting interest rates to simulate the economy.

Central bank governor Mark Carney surprised financial markets by freezing the bank's trend-setting overnight rate at 3 per cent.

Carney expressed new fears that the upsurge in fuel prices caused by $130-dollar-a-barrel crude oil could spur runaway inflation.

For Ontario, which is facing near-recessionary conditions, the bank's stance raised the spectre of stagflation, the combination of hefty consumer price increases and weak economic growth that made life miserable for average Canadians in the 1970s.

Economists had been expecting Carney to lower rates by a quarter point yesterday to boost the economy, which in the first three months of 2008 fell by 0.3 per cent — the worst performance since 2003.

Cottage buyers staying away

Selling conditions
more balanced

Fewer people are looking at buying a recreational property, resulting in slower sales, an increased number of listings and prices that are only slightly higher or flat compared with a year ago, according to a Re/Max report.

Ontario towns

» Starting prices in popular Ontario towns such as Haliburton, Bancroft and Parry Sound were down from 10 to 20 per cent.

The real estate sales company said yesterday that of the 45 markets surveyed across the country, about 91 per cent were considered to be transitioning away from strong selling conditions to one that's more balanced between buyers and sellers.

Only a handful of markets managed to buck the trend — in Saskatchewan, Salt Spring Island, B.C., and Newfoundland's east coast — mostly because fewer properties were listed in those areas.

Leafs welcome Wilson

New coach faces major challenge to help revive team

Ron Wilson has already seen the kind of stress that comes with coaching the Maple Leafs.

He was taking a walk along Santana Row in San Jose, Calif., earlier this year when the struggling Leafs were in town and happened to spot Toronto head coach Paul Maurice across the street.

Even though Wilson was well aware of all the speculation surrounding the team at that time, he was surprised to see the large bags under Maurice's eyes.

"I said, 'Geez Paul, you look like a guy who could use a good hug,'" Wilson recalled. "So I gave him a big hug on the street. He thought I was crazy."

"We talked a little bit and I told him: 'You've got to keep your head high. It's a tough business and you're going to have your ups and downs.'"

It's the kind of advice Wilson might want to write down and save for a later date, especially after officially replacing Maurice as the head coach of the Maple Leafs yesterday.

He's the 20th different man — including interim coaches

New Maple Leafs head coach Ron Wilson gets his first taste of the Toronto media during his introductory press conference yesterday at the Air Canada Centre.

— to step behind the team's bench since it last won the Stanley Cup in 1967.

Even Wilson acknowledged there is a lot of work to be done if the Cup is to return to Toronto during his tenure. The Maple Leafs are in the midst of one of the worst stretches in franchise history, having not qualified for the playoffs since before the NHL lockout started.

"Everybody's talking here like the Leafs have sucked for 41 years or whatever it is," said Wilson. "They came pretty close five, six years ago to winning a Cup."

"You need a break, you need a bounce and you need patience."

Patience has been in short supply for a fanbase that has continually been disappointed by its team. Maurice famously said during training camp last year that the Leafs were ready to compete for the Stanley Cup, only to watch as they fell well short of that goal.

Expectations will be much lower next season when Wilson takes over what is expected to be a fairly inexperienced lineup. During previous stops in Anaheim, Washington and San Jose, Wilson developed a reputation for getting the most out of his young players.

"I think he's everything we need here in Toronto," said interim GM Cliff Fletcher. "He's one of the top coaches in the league."

Wilson spent the past five years with a Sharks team that became one of the NHL's best under his watch, but couldn't quite get over the top. He was fired after a loss to Dallas in the second round of the playoffs.

BLUE JAYS 3 MARINERS 1

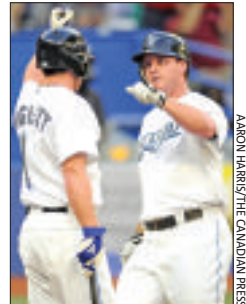

Released by the Seattle Mariners almost exactly one month earlier, Brad Wilkerson came back to haunt his former team last night.

Wilkerson ripped a go-ahead solo shot in the fifth inning to give a dealing Dustin McGowan the advantage he needed in leading the Blue Jays to a 3-1 victory.

Vernon Wells, a game-time decision playing on a sore right ankle, also hit a solo shot while Scott Rolen drove in a big insurance run in the sixth as the Blue Jays moved over .500 again with just their third win in 10 games.

It was a sorely needed bounce-back effort after a soul-sucking 3-2, 10-inning loss Monday to the dreadful Mariners, who own the worst record in baseball and have lost eight of their past 10.

The perennial underachievers looked like champions and last tournament's over-achievers looked pedestrian yesterday at the European Championship.

Spain, which is still looking for its first major international trophy since winning Euro 1964 at home, routed Russia 4-1 in its Group D opener, getting three goals from David Villa and another from Cesc Fabregas.

Surprising Euro 2004 champion Greece, however, failed to produce the same stifling defence that kept it going through the knockout rounds last time, allowing second-half goals from Zlatan Ibrahimovic and Petter Hansson in a 2-0 loss to Sweden in Salzburg.

"The Greeks didn't play with heart like they normally do, and the Swedes pushed us hard," said Greece coach Otto Rehhagel, who will likely need a win against Russia on Saturday to have any hope of reaching the quarter-finals.

Villa gave Spain the lead in Innsbruck in the 20th minute, taking a pass from Fernando Torres and beating goalkeeper Igor Akinfeyev with a right-footed shot. He added another after a slick pass from Andres Iniesta in the 44th, and then completed the hat trick in the 74th after dribbling around Roman Shirokov and again scoring with his right foot.

"Three goals, a hat trick with the national team — it's started well," said Villa, who scored the first hat trick at the European Championship since 2000. "We're off to a good start. But there are still two games to go."

Roman Pavlyuchenko got one back for Russia with a header in the 86th, and Fabregas added Spain's fourth goal in injury time.

Spain, which has won seven straight matches and is riding a 17-game unbeaten streak, opened its second straight Euro campaign with a win over the Russians — the Spanish won 1-0 in Portugal four years ago.

"(Considering) how much possession of the ball we had ... we were caught out by our own mistakes," Russia coach

Sweden's Henrik Larsson and Greece's Sotirios Kyrgiakos battle for the ball yesterday in Salzburg, Austria.

Guus Hiddink said. "I hope we can move fast now because we still have two games to go."

Cheerleader feels heat after switch

Players constantly jump from team to team as free agents. But cheerleaders?

Asha Tomlinson, 29, may have started something of a trend, at least in the CFL. A former cheerleader for the Toronto Argonauts, Tomlinson is the newest member of the Edmonton Eskimos' cheerleading squad. Interestingly, she also is a reporter and host for Citytv's Breakfast Television in Edmonton.

A five-foot, 125-pounder, Tomlinson is a Toronto native. She admits she's feeling the same type of heat that players do when they bolt.

"My friends in Toronto have a problem with (her cheering for the Esks)," she said. "They're like, 'What are you doing? Eskimos? Where's your loyalty?' But I'm an Edmontonian now."

Check out Asha at www.citytv.com/edmonton/personalities_7472.aspx.

» New Maple Leafs coach Ron Wilson made it clear at his introductory media conference yesterday that his team will be in transition.

Translation: Don't expect the Leafs to make the playoffs in 2008-09 and don't criticize the coach for inheriting a dog of a team.

And why would Wilson mention at the conference that he was born in the same Windsor hospital as Richard Peddie? The Leafs' front-office chief isn't exactly Mr. Popular in Toronto these days, is he?

» Big names are swirling in baseball's trade winds.

Power hitters Magglio Ordonez and Adam Dunn are being dangled by the Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds, respectively. One could join the Boston Red Sox, who may need to replace David Ortiz (wrist injury).

Also, Erik Bedard can be had and the Seattle Mariners are listening to offers for the Ontario-born pitcher. The Philadelphia Phillies have offered a pack of prospects. The Blue Jays have mild interest.

Don't be surprised, incidentally, if Seattle fires manager John McLaren tomorrow.

» Jerry Buss has had a rough go lately.

Not only did his Los Angeles Lakers lose the first two games of the NBA championship series to the underdog Boston Celtics, but the owner also was knocked out of the seven-card-stud world championships in Las Vegas.

» The CFL signed three higher-profile players in the off-season. None stuck.

Receiver Peter Warrick failed a physical and was cut by the Montreal Alouettes, quarterback Chris Leak sprung to the Arena League after signing with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats and receiver David Boston showed up to the Argos with a fractured foot.

Tiger coy about sore knee

World No. 1 gets set for U.S. Open

The U.S. Open, San Diego style, brought morning fog that clung to the cliffs and spilled over to Torrey Pines Golf Course when Tiger Woods showed up for another nine-hole session yesterday.

The setting could not have been more appropriate.

What once had been such a clear picture of this U.S. Open is now shrouded with uncertainty, starting with the left knee of the No. 1 player in the world. Woods has not played a competitive round since his runner-up finish at the Masters on April 13, having surgery two days later to clean out cartilage.

"Is it fully recovered?" he said. "Probably not."

Woods played 17½ holes last Wednesday in a cart, then retreated to his club in southern California for more cart golf over the weekend. Then came nine holes at Torrey on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Woods has owned Torrey Pines as much as any other golf course in the world, winning the Buick Invitational for the sixth time in January, by a tournament-record eight shots. In spite of the injury, this record still makes him a favourite this week.

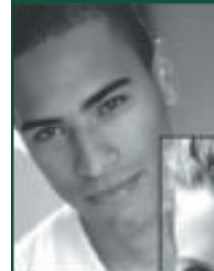

"It's like Big Brown, with a crack (in the hoof)," said Spain's Sergio Garcia. "He was still the favourite."

Toyota's perfect combo

Matrix mixes economy, sport and utility

By B. MCLAUCHLAN
for Metro Toronto

Toyota used an ultra-hip specialty car show when it debuted its new Matrix five-door to instill it with an instant "cool" credibility. That move might have come about because the average buyer of the last Matrix was over 50 ... and Toyota wants to skew that demographic more toward the lucrative youth market.

Built in California alongside its Pontiac Vibe mechanical twin — and also in Cambridge, Ont. — the Matrix wagon blends the "affordability" of a subcompact sedan and functionality of an SUV with the style, image and performance of a sports car."

Wider and lower, this edgy-looking second-generation Matrix shares its engine lineup with its GM cousin, starting with a fuel-conscious 1.8-litre four-cylinder engine producing 132 horsepower. Toyota, however, uses its own variable valve timing system to maximize engine performance and fuel economy.

For those craving a bit more grunt, the Matrix also offers a 158-hp, 2.4-litre "four."

Pricewise, there's something for every budget, starting at a low-low base price of $15,705 for the base front-wheel-drive model with manual transmission.

Standard is a four-speaker AM/FM/CD/MP3 sound system with auxiliary input jack,

Matrix blends the affordability of a subcompact sedan and functionality of an SUV with the style and performance of a sports car.

2009 Toyota Matrix

- Type: Compact 5-pass. wagon FWD
- Price: $15,705 – $26,855
- Engine: 1.8L L4 DOHC/2.4L L4 DOHC
- HP: 132 @ 6,000 rpm/ 158 @ 6,000 rpm
- Torque: 128 @ 4,400 rpm/162 @ 4,000 rpm

Highlights:

- Lots of choices
- Better looks
- Return of all-wheel-drive availability

Lots of storage, cargo area lighting, tilt-telescopic steering wheel and foldable power-heated side mirrors are some of the features that come standard with the new Toyota Matrix.

rear-seat heater ducts and side window defoggers, 60/40-split fold-down rear seat, rev counter, outside temp gauge, digital clock, dual vanity mirrors, tilt-telescopic steering wheel, tonneau cover, cargo-area lighting, lots of storage, an engine immobilizer and foldable power-heated side mirrors. A $2,540 B Package adds air conditioning, keyless entry, power windows and locks, rear bumper protector and a tire pressure monitoring system. The $3,965 Touring Package brings the "B" items plus 16-inch alloy wheels, cruise control, a rear spoiler, scuff plates and fog lamps. All of which still allows the Matrix to list at under 20 grand with a five-speed manual. The automatic is an additional $1,010.

Moving up the $19,180 Matrix XR, its bigger 2.4-litre engine offers a significant power boost.

A great decision was to bring back the all-wheel-drive Matrix, equipped with the 2.4 engine and only available with the four-speed automatic at $22,330. It's a base Matrix, plus keyless entry and hatch release, an upgraded lighting system, variable-speed wipers, tire pressure monitoring, power locks and climate control.

An all-wheel-drive XR will set you back $24,945 with the Sport package going for $26,855.

At the top of the range is the $25,220 Matrix XRS. Performance differences over the other models include beefier suspension bits and 18-inch wheels.

Any way you look at it, the Matrix is just about all the vehicle you'll ever need and, with its combination of stylish design, good options and aggressive pricing, it's a lot more versatile, sporty and fun-to-drive than similarly priced small sedans.

Many drive through fatigue: Studies

Drivers often fail to recognize signs of tiredness

As people jam the roads and highways with the start of the peak summer driving season, there's greater risk of being — or running into — a drowsy driver, says the National Road Safety Foundation, Inc., a U.S.-based non-profit group.

A day in the sun can make you tired. Drowsiness is a condition most drivers fail to recognize, and it can be as dangerous as drinking and driving.

Studies show 60 per cent of us have driven while feeling fatigued, and more than a third admit to having fallen asleep at the wheel in the past year.

Drowsiness is a factor in a substantial number of traffic crashes.

If you experience any sign of fatigue, pull over at the next exit or a safe rest area and take a break or a 20-minute nap.

Have a cup or two of coffee or caffeinated snacks and allow 30 minutes for the caffeine to enter your bloodstream. Don't drink alcohol or take medication.

Sleep-induced crashes are often very serious, since the driver does not take evasive or corrective action when losing control of the vehicle.

signs of fatigue

- » Difficulty focusing, with frequent blinking.
- » Daydreaming or not remembering the last few miles driven.
- » Head nodding.
- » Repeated yawning or rubbing eyes.
- » Drifting out of your lane, tailgating or hitting shoulder rumble strips.

Buzz around crossovers

CUVs edging out SUVs in consumer interest: Report

The gap in buyer interest between crossover utility vehicles (CUVs) and sport utility vehicles (SUVs) continues to widen, according to a report released by NADAguides.com.

The company, a vehicle pricing and information website, says consumer interest in crossovers increased 14.8 per cent in April 2008 compared to the same period a year ago, while SUV interest was down at almost the same rate of 15.9 per cent during that same timeframe.

"Crossovers" are defined as vehicles that have characteristics of both SUVs and cars.

Three out of the top 10 CUVs showing the greatest increase in consumer interest last month compared to April of last year were hybrids, with interest in the Mercury Mariner Hybrid (not sold in Canada) growing 165.3 per cent and interest in the Ford Escape Hybrid and the Toyota Highlander Hybrid increasing 73.8 per cent and 50.9 per cent respectively.

Following is a complete list of the CUVs showing the greatest increase in consumer interest at NADAguides.com in April 2008 compared to April 2007.

» Hyundai Veracruz 343.9%
» Mercury Mariner Hybrid (not sold in Canada) +165.3%

» Buick Enclave +125.0%

» Subaru Forester +115.1%

» Porsche Cayenne +90.4%

» Saturn Vue +83.5%

» Ford Escape Hybrid +73.8%

» Chevrolet HHR +51.5%

» Toyota Highlander Hybrid +50.9%

» Mazda MAZDA5 +44.6%

Crossovers to watch in the coming months include two new CUVs — the 2009 Dodge Journey and the '09 Ford Flex.

The Journey is Dodge's first crossover to seat up to seven passengers with an optional third row.

It has features such as a rearview camera and built-in booster seats. The Ford Flex, with its slab-sides and unique look, arrives this summer. Available features include all-wheel-drive, a multi-panel Vista Roof and refrigerated second-row console.

Scientists develop new plant fuel

RESEARCH Low-pollution cars powered by hydrogen produced from plant sugar could be on the road within 10 years, according to biochemists in the United States. They have developed a process that combines plant sugars with a cocktail of enzymes to produce hydrogen and small amounts of carbon dioxide. The researchers are now working to speed up their process to make it commercially viable.

The new Journey is Dodge's answer to the increasingly popular entry-level "crossover" segment.

Worth the trip

Dodge Journey
maps new territory

By B. MCLAUCHLAN
for Metro Toronto

The new Journey is Dodge's answer to the increasingly popular entry-level "crossover" segment. Aimed straight at the Toyota RAV4, Hyundai Santa Fe, Kia Rondo, Mazda5 and others, the Journey gives Dodge a decent shot at respectability in a market sector virtually dominated by Asian nameplates.

The Journey is based on Dodge's proven Avenger platform, although the wheelbase has been stretched 124 mm to accommodate an optional third-row seat. It sits a little higher, too, but the overall length has only grown by 43 mm, meaning a reasonably compact size that's good for congested urban roads. All models get independent suspension and disc brakes on all four wheels.

There are four versions to choose from, all well equipped: The Journey SE CVP (Canada Value Package) at $19,995; Journey SE Plus which starts at $20,995; the $24,995 Journey SXT; and the range-topping R/T model at $27,995.

Both SE models get a 173-horsepower 2.4-litre four-cylinder engine while those seeking more punch in the power department will likely go for the 235-hp 3.5-litre V6 found in the SXT and R/T trim.

The only transmissions available are automatics: A four-speed on the SEs and a six-speed for V6-powered models.

Front-drive is standard, al-

The Dodge Journey comes with dual glove boxes equipped with Chill Zone beverage storage.

though an electronic all-wheel-drive system that can split power up to 60/40 front-to-rear is optional on the SXT and R/T.

The Journey also follows recent Dodge designs inside, with storage bins in the second-row floor wells, under the passenger seat and, of course, the dual glove boxes with the Chill Zone beverage storage. Rear cargo room is generous as well.

The optional third-row seat, unlike many of its competitors, is available across the line as a $1,175 option, bringing with it air conditioning.

Behind the steering wheel, the forward-angled dash gives a better sense of space, while large windows and a fairly low beltline provide plenty of visibility.

Our Journey R/T kept the cabin nicely isolated from most pavement imperfections and only a little wind noise around the windshield pillars made it past the triple-door seals.

It handled well, too, although a bit more steering feel would be welcome. The brakes are solid, if not the most aggressive in their response.

It looks like Dodge might have a legitimate hit on its hands. It may not be as much fun to drive as some in the "crossover" class, but at each of its price points it is better equipped than many of its rivals.

Models display some of the auto-inspired garments students came up with at a recent fashion show in Chicago.

Car couture on runway

Fashion students take inspiration from hot models

Cutting-edge fashion hit the runway recently in Chicago at the International Academy of Design & Technology's 29th annual student fashion show Imagine 2008, where more than 100 original designs were showcased.

One of this year's most intriguing concepts was to design a garment around an automobile. Students were challenged to take inspiration from a choice of five cars and design for a specific category such as career, sportswear, evening wear and avant-garde.

The competition challenged designers to "think outside the box," using the car's shape, technology, colour and interior as the foundation for their inspiration.

Among the winning entries — a sporty, "armour-like" ensemble emulating the rugged exterior of the Hummer HX Concept; a sleek, one-shoulder cocktail dress reflecting the three-door design of the Saturn Astra; a jacket with a dramatic neckline reminiscent of the distinctive flared fender of the Pontiac G8 GT; a sophisticated suit adapted from the curvaceous lines of the award-winning Chevrolet Malibu; and a glamorous gown combining the classic beauty and powerful edge of the Saab 9-3 Turbo X.

An Aston Martin model.

Auto giants clash over Bond's ride

A gentlemanly disagreement about whether James Bond prefers Bentleys to Aston Martin has raised eyebrows in the luxury car world.

The tiff comes as the latest James Bond novel, Devil May Care, is published to mark the centenary of author Ian Fleming, who created the debonair spy during the early years of the Cold War.

In the new book, penned by Sebastian Faulks "writing as Ian Fleming," Commander Bond is buzzing about in a two-seat Bentley Continental.

"It's quite nice from a historical perspective, since Bond drove Bentleys in Fleming's books," noted Richard Charlesworth, director of royal and VIP relations at Bentley Motors. "He was brought up at a time when the Bentley brothers were winning a lot of races."

Bentley muscling in on what Aston Martin has long seen as its territory is derided by chief executive Ulrich Bez.

"Who would want to read the book? The film is what made James Bond famous."

In films, Bond "requires the best of British," Bez said. "And that's an Aston Martin."

Peugeot sets new record

No it's not the world's strongest man, tallest woman or heaviest baby. It's the Peugeot 308 HDi 110, which has just secured its place in the 2009 Guinness Book of Records.

Driving around the coast of Australia, the intrepid husband and wife team of John and Helen Taylor drove their completely standard Peugeot hatchback on a 25-day, 14,480-kilometre journey. During their record-breaking trek they broke two world records by recording an unprecedented 1,918 km on just 60 litres of diesel fuel and an average fuel consumption of 90.75 mpg.

The Peugeot now holds the

world record for both the highest average fuel consumption on a journey, a record previously held by a Peugeot 307 hatchback, and the record for the farthest distance travelled on a full tank of fuel.

The record attempt was verified by an independent scrutineer to ensure all the requirements of the Guinness World Records' regulations were met and all stipulations for setting the record were followed.

Exploring Ibiza's quieter side

Infamous Spanish party island also has lots to see

By TOM MARCHANT
for Metro World News

Ibiza is a place that always provokes a reaction. For some it's the warm reminiscing of hedonistic summers, for others, it's the shudder at the thought of spending time on an island with rowdy clubbers.

Anyone in the know knows Ibiza is anything but the San Antonio clichés (and even that area is changing for the better). And to those Ibiza veterans who have adopted a been-there-done-that attitude, I would point out that the island is so progressive and contains so many creative residents the idea of it ever being "done" is simply a non-starter.

Ibiza is so much more than just a clubber's paradise. It offers everything from perfect escape time, to some of the best restaurants serving the freshest fish you will ever taste. All of this is mixed with a glamorous bohemian scene where you're just as likely to find yourself lunching al fresco on a table next to Robert De Niro as drinking cold beers at a beach bar with the Arctic Monkeys.

So what to do and how to do it? Here are just a few pointers that include some classic relaxation and some predictable (but oh so worthwhile) hedonistic socializing.

Starting with a little bit of relaxation time, head to the Can Talaia hotel in the North East of the island and hang out by the prettiest pool in Ibiza; hotelcantalaia.com.

From there, head to the gorgeous beach at Cala Mastella for a swim, before grabbing lunch at El Bigote where you can have a long, leisurely meal — just make sure you reserve though. Royalty has been turned away because they didn't have their name down (no phone, reservations in person).

For those looking for a bit more activity during the days, consider kitesurfing on the southeastern coast near Ibiza Town, at either Es Cavallet or Playa Den Bossa before kayaking round the southern tip to lunch at foodie favourite Sa Caleta, to the east of Cala Jondal.

For those searching for a great boho local market, head northeast of Ibiza Town to Las Dalias market on a Saturday morning, www.lasdalias.es. For the true Ibiza look, head down to Benirras beach for a visit to Deseo, where insiders go for great leather sandals, cotton dresses and silks from Thailand. For vintage pieces, visit Ganesha, popular with regular visitors including Elle Macpherson and Jade Jagger (14 Montgri, Ibiza Town).

As your perfect day draws to a close, line up the perfect evening.

Start off with dinner at Plaza del Sol, a restaurant within the old city walls with gorgeous views over Ibiza Town (Plaza Del Sol 7). Another favourite is Clos Denis in San Rafael, an island institution (Plaza de Iglesia, San Rafael).

Then it really is all about the night. You'll have heard of the super clubs including Pacha, www.pacha.com, and Amnesia, amnesia-ibiza.com — go there for Manumission on a Friday night — and while these clubs showcase the brilliant beating soul of the island and are full of weird and wonderful characters, don't forget what else is on offer.

From the trendy DC10, www.dc10ibiza.com on a Monday night, to the more low key but equally memorable Underground on a Thursday, ibizaunderground.com.

com) these places provide wonderful Ibiza nightlife experiences.

Another cult classic is Space on a Sunday. It's regularly voted the best club in the world and if you haven't been you'll see why when you get there, www.space-ibiza.es. A sign to say you truly have arrived in Ibiza is getting an invite to the illegal beach parties that take place on a Saturday on either Playa S'Estanyol or Blue Martin Cala Jondal.

But to fit in all of that nightlife alongside exploring, shopping, relaxing and taking in the island's other attractions — well, something will have to give.

High-rolling on the high seas

At $55,000 a week, a luxury yacht cruise through British Columbia's Gulf Islands isn't for the fiscally-challenged. The Pacific Yellowfin draws a clientele of high-rollers who don't mind dropping some coin on a pimped-out holiday. Last week, members of Pearl Jam chartered the yacht and explored the islands and inlets that stretch 120 kilometres across the Canadian/U.S. border.

A week on this cruise costs more than I make in a year, yet there I was, sipping cocktails on deck like a rock star. The wind in my hair, I embraced first-class living on this two-night, three-day maritime expedition.

Compared to the gleaming fibreglass speedboats docked at the harbour nearby, the Pacific Yellowfin is understated. She is a classic wooden ship, with a history as diverse as Forrest Gump's. Through the years she's been a World War II coastal freighter, a tuna research vessel and a houseboat that accommodated a hippie commune of flower power. She's travelled clandestinely to search for Che Guevara and was involved in the Bay of Pigs.

Today, the Pacific Yellowfin is owned by Captain Colin Griffinson, an Irishman who renovated and converted it into a luxury charter yacht. A 114-footer that sleeps eight, the Pacific Yellowfin offers gourmet food, specially cooked by an execu-

For those who dig boats, a trip to the engine room is yacht porn. Chief engineer Jack Dixon, 71, gave me a tour and ran through the daily mechanics of operating the vessel. He showed me the slow turning engines built in 1939 and the reserve tanks containing 18,000 gallons of diesel. "We could travel to China non-stop," Jack told me in his grizzly, sea dog voice.

» Exposure, a Vancouver-based tour operator specializing in luxury travel, offers the "Gulf Island Gourmet," a three-day expedition aboard the Pacific Yellowfin. For more information, visit www.exposure.travel.

Instead of making our way to Asia, we anchored at Lyall Harbour, hopped into a smaller motor boat and toured the surrounding inlets. For those who are into wildlife, the Gulf Islands are home to orca whales, harbour seals and Steller sea lions.

I was lucky to see a threesome of sea lions basking their obese slippery bodies on a rocky outcrop. As we approached, the dominant male perked up, waddled around and barked loudly. They were bigger than I'd imagined.

"Don't make eye contact with them" warned the captain. Apparently, if they catch you looking at them, they'll sink into the water and disappear. I observed them sneakily.

With this calibre of animal viewing, it's hard to imagine I was only a 20-minute seaplane flight away from downtown Vancouver. After an indulgent stay, it was pumpkin time. My days of playing Cinderella on the seas were over, and it was time to return to my life as a lowly land-dweller.

Montreal's summer sizzle

City bursts with activity during warm months

Tourists heading to Montreal this summer will be joining race-car drivers, Hollywood stars, internationally renowned musicians and top tennis players as festival season bolsters the regular attractions in the world's second-largest French-speaking city.

There's plenty to see and do in Montreal year-round but the city bursts with activity in summer, with back-to-back festivals and top sports events.

Tourists can book hotels through tourisme-montreal.org, which offers a "Sweet Deal" package on centrally located hotels and discounts at attractions. Rates for a three-star hotel are as low as $129, and five stars go for about $199.

» A lot of the fun is environmentally friendly. The city is boasting an extra 15-kilometre bike path along downtown De Maisonneuve Boulevard, which has been added to the existing 330 kilometres of bike trails around Montreal. Cycling plays a big part in the Montreal Bike Fest, which runs May 25 to June 1.

» Four-wheeled transportation will also be a big part of Montreal's summer with finely tuned Formula One car engines roaring down the Circuit Gilles-Villeneuve during the Canadian Grand Prix held June 6-8, followed in August by the NASCAR Busch Series race Aug. 1-2.

Race-car drivers, musicians and clowns mix with tourists at the Montreal International Jazz Festival.

» Tourism Montreal is whetting travellers' appetites for the city with a flashy video promoting the city on their newly redesigned website, tourisme-montreal.org.

» For those preferring haute couture to spandex and racing helmets, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts will be showcasing a 40-year retrospective of the work of French fashion designer Yves St-Laurent from June 4 to Sept. 28.

» The rhythm changes on June 26 as hundreds of internationally known musicians are heard with the start of the 29th Montreal International Jazz Festival, which runs until July 6. Appearances include living legends Leonard Cohen, Woody Allen and Aretha Franklin.

» Laughter will drown out the music as the jazz festival winds down with the start of the Just for Laughs comedy festival, which has events throughout July but kicks into high gear between July 10 to 20. Among the stars coming to the comedy festival will be comedian and talk show host Craig Ferguson, standup Joan Rivers, Saturday Night Live alumnus Jimmy Fallon, actor Seth Rogan (Knocked Up) and the creators of South Park, Trey Parker and Matt Stone.

salzburg spat

Austrians outraged over famed home

PROTEST The hills are alive ... with the sound of protest.

Angry Austrians living near a Salzburg villa that once belonged to the Von Trapp family immortalized in the blockbuster hit movie The Sound of Music are fighting plans to turn the home into a hotel.

Opponents have said the neighbourhood already is teeming with tourists drawn to the area where the 1965 film starring Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer was made.

Organizer Andreas Braunbrück told Austrian television that neighbours intend to fight the hotel plan "with all means at our disposal."

The Villa Trapp is located on the outskirts of Salzburg and once housed the von Trapp family, which gained global fame in the 1965 film. The movie tells the story of a woman who married a widower with seven children and teaches them music.

Dads long for quality time

By RAFAEL BRUSILOW
for Metro Toronto

Many working dads talk about wanting to spend more time with their families, but how many actually trade in work hours for some quality time?

Findings from a recent Workopolis Dads in the Workplace Poll show that at least one-in-five fathers fear time away from home is making them miss out on some of their families' biggest moments.

On the other hand, 40 per cent of the dads surveyed also report being able to manage all home duties adequately compared to only 5 per cent of moms, suggesting that while many working dads not only forget to be home — they perhaps forget to help out at home, too.

"I think perhaps fathers do delude themselves into thinking there isn't as much to do at home, and I suspect it's an issue that sweeps across income areas," said Patrick Sullivan, president of the popular online job portal Workopolis that released the study. Sullivan suggests working dads sometimes forget how important time with the family is and neglect to make room for it.

"We all tend to spend more time working than we do with our families. You need to take that time for your family — it's important," he said.

Sullivan, 49, and himself a father of two, says past time he spent away from his family wasn't always worth it — despite how successful he has been.

"I really wasn't at home much for my children for a couple of years. I certainly look back now and regret that. I think if I had more balance in my life at that time, I don't think it would have adversely affected my career that much and it would have benefited my family greatly," Sullivan said.

Family time, just like business meetings and project deadlines, needs to be scheduled. Plan ahead for important events like recitals and give yourself reminders.

"Time management is important. Set alarms, don't turn on the TV right when you get home and be at the dinner table. All too often we as parents can neglect that special time," Sullivan said.

As for bonding with your kids — Sullivan recommends bringing them into the office so they can understand why dad is away providing for them.

"Show your kids what you do. Take them to work," he said.

If your workplace doesn't allow kids, find other ways to explain your job, be it photos, work examples or website links. Sullivan says in the long run, having been there for your family's most important moments will probably mean a lot more to you than the career successes you obtained a little faster by sacrificing those moments.

"My hope is that we are able to provide a little more balance in our lives," Sullivan said.

A new study indicates that many working dads feel they're missing out on their kids' childhood due to work.

Famous fatherly advice

» "When I was a teen, my dad kept saying to me, 'Don't take things for granted!' At the time I had no idea what that meant, but 12 years into my career as an actor/comedian, I find myself saying it all the time."

— Shaun Majumder, actor/comedian

» "Skate where the puck's going, not where it's been."

— Walter Gretzky's advice to his son, hockey star Wayne Gretzky

» "Dad said having a law degree was the best tool that he ever had. So when law school was done, my obligation was over."

— E-Talk Daily host Ben Mulroney

» "My father always told me, have fun with what you do. The minute you stop having fun in your job, it is time to make a change!"

— Mark Cohon, CFL Commissioner

» "My father told me that the difficulty in business is never the choice between good and bad — any idiot can figure that out. The difficulty is the choice between good and good. The secret to real success in business and in life is taking the time to make the best choice."

— Rocco Rossi, CEO, Heart and Stroke Foundation

» "I can still remember my father's words to me as I left Ireland for Canada: We sent you to good schools ... taught you the difference between right and wrong ... provided you with every advantage. This will not be enough to make you a success. What will make you a success is your commitment to do more."

Court hears about Winehouse hubby

PEOPLE The husband of singer Amy Winehouse beat up a pub landlord and then offered him a bribe worth about $400,000 US to keep quiet about the attack, The Associated Press reports a prosecutor as having said yesterday.

Prosecution lawyer Sean Larkin said barman James King suffered a broken cheekbone in the 2006 bar-room attack by Winehouse's spouse, Blake Fielder-Civil, and another man — but was willing to accept money to spare his attackers jail. King, 36, is on trial for conspiring to pervert the course of justice. He denies the charge.

Summer of the anti-hero

Flawed characters find popularity on big screen

By STEVE GOW
for Metro Toronto

In the upcoming Incredible Hulk movie, Edward Norton utters a phrase that perhaps best epitomizes the big-screen superhero: "When I lose control, it's very dangerous to be around me."

No kidding! Anyone who unwittingly turns into a rampaging green monster when they're ticked off is definitely somebody I'd rather not sit across from at the euchre table. But, as a superhero, shouldn't we admire The Hulk's feats and noble qualities instead of fear him?

Well, not necessarily. When a character is reluctant, flawed or devoid of the attributes we associate with altruistic heroism, that character is called an anti-hero and there are few better examples than The Hulk. Whereas traditional heroes brave danger for the sake of others, the character of Bruce Banner merely copes with the gamma-radiation accident that reluctantly turned him into a monstrous rage.

While anti-heroes have been prevalent in cinema since the days of pulp fiction (think Sam Spade in The Maltese Falcon), they only continue to increase in popularity. Many critics argue that this advancing popularity is hinged on a cynical recognition that people find naturally-flawed characters more believable.

This summer surely vindicates that notion. In addition to the Incredible Hulk, such movies as Wanted, Hellboy 2, Death Race and even Indiana Jones are relying on the anti-heroic traits of their lead characters to attract audiences.

It began with Iron Man, a superhero whose alter-ego is fraught with human frailties. A loner who drinks, smokes and womanizes; by comparison, he makes Superman look like a Quaker.

Vengeance is often an attribute of anti-heroism. This summer, it's best represented with The Dark Knight. Not only does that film feature the vigilante justice of Batman but it introduces an even more dubious anti-hero in Harvey Two-Face (Aaron Eckhart), a district attorney who transforms into a savage killer. Two-Face is the consummate anti-hero in that, being on the side of justice, he only kills the bad dudes — a morally complex question to be sure.

Then there is Will Smith. In his new action-comedy Hancock, he simply plays a hard-drinking superhero that's described as "edgy, conflicted, sarcastic, and misunderstood"; he even seems to get jiggy by threatening little kids.

While these characteristics aren't admirable, we still empathize with anti-heroes because they represent our own flaws and thereby embody the promise that we too can overcome our frailties for the greater good. As for me, well, I'm just relieved my central frailty doesn't happen to be a bad attitude and green skin.

North By Northeast blankets Toronto

500 bands in town for music and film festival

By IAN NATHANSON
for Metro Toronto

"Welcome to Toronto, Live Music Capital of North America!"

Bold proclamation? Not according to the organizers of the 14th annual North By Northeast (NXNE) Music And Film Festival & Conference. In fact, the proclamation has been attached to a live music series underway at Pearson International Airport's Terminals 1 and 3, one of several new ventures to better promote this year's festival, running tomorrow through Sunday.

"It's partly an idea that we took from South By Southwest (SXSW), our sister event in Austin, Texas," NXNE managing director Andy McLean explains. "When you get off the plane there, you see a sign that says, 'Welcome to the music capital of the world.'

"Now we always thought that Toronto is an amazing music city. So we managed to get the Greater Toronto Airport Authority involved to support us in declaring Toronto the live music capital of North America and have some performances for people to see when they arrive at Pearson. It should become immediate apparent to all that there's a festival taking place."

All told, the airport gigs are a perfect introduction to the four days whereby more than

Ok City Ok, left, The Trews, above, and Evan Dando, right, are among the more than 500 bands set to perform during the North By Northeast Music And Film Festival & Conference, which runs across the city through June 15. More details at nxne.com.

500 performers worldwide — some jetting in from as far as Australia, Japan, India, Brazil and Colombia — will play at 50 venues throughout downtown Toronto.

Names vary from the familiar (Sloan, The Trews, Bedouin Soundclash, The New Odds, Evan Dando, Money Mark, Redd Kross) to the worth-a-glimpse (India's Menwhopause, Japan's Ok City Ok, Cape Bretoner's The Tom Fun Orchestra, Toronto's D-Sisive, Vancouver's The Real McKenzie).

"When we created this festival back in 1995, there was no MySpace or YouTube to help independent bands get new fans or create media exposure," McLean says. "The whole idea is to experience the festival and try to take in as many new bands as possible. It's a lot about discovery."

Along with the live showcases, trade shows and conferences (including a celebrity interview with '80s hitmaker Thomas Dolby), there is also the ever-growing film festival component, highlighting music-related movies such as Global Metal

(a sequel to Metal: A Headbanger's Journey) and The Last Pogo (scenes from a late 1978 riotous punk concert at the Horseshoe). Bruce McDonald will also be filming at several locales for a sequel to his '96 flick, Hard Core Logo.

Tickets for individual shows are available. Additionally, wristbands and passes ranging from $19 for one-day users to $249 for a VIP Super Pass (which allows festival-goers to pre-book up to 10 showcases) can be purchased. Check out nxne.com for complete schedules.

Good enough to make you cry

By JONATHAN P. KUEHLEIN
Metro Toronto

Ken Imaizumi knew after all the long hours he and hundreds of others had worked on making Metal Gear Solid 4 something special had paid off when they made a woman cry. The veteran video game producer said he knew because the woman in question was from the Japanese ratings board.

"She watches the videos for all the new games — up to 5,000 games a year — and when she watched the video of this game, and she got to the end, she cried," Imaizumi told Metro at a Konami preview event recently in San Francisco.

Metal Gear Solid 4

"She said: 'This is not just a game.'" This emotion-packed stealth/action game, the latest in a franchise that has sold more than 20 million units over the last decade and a half, hits the streets exclusively for PlayStation 3 tomorrow and assistant producer Ryan Payton definitely agrees the creators have come up with something special.

"It's not your normal game," Payton said. "There are so many elements, layers and layers of complexity and jokes and story. It was really an epic development experience and it's an epic game playing experience as well."

As for what fans can expect from MGS4, the producer said, simply, the end.

"This is Solid Snake's final mission," Imaizumi noted.

"His saga is finished."

Fox buys rights to Mosque

REACH FOR THE TOP:

There were high-fives all around at the CBC this week with the announcement that 20th Century Fox Television had bought U.S. rights for an adaptation of Little Mosque On The Prairie. There had, apparently, been interest in the show south of the border for some time before Fox and Westwind Pictures announced the deal at Banff's World Television Festival, and the Canadian producer had been negotiating with Fox before the Hollywood writers' strike forced them to take a temporary break.

According to a Hollywood Reporter story, the deal doesn't preclude the original Canadian version from being aired stateside, and Westwind's Mary Darling, executive producer of the CBC version, said they were pleased with the deal.

"Fox got the creative vision of the show, that it has to be funny while it treads sensitively on certain Mus-

IDIOT BOX
RICK MCGINNIS
rick.mcginis@metronews.ca

lim issues," Darling told the Hollywood Reporter.

I'm aware that Canadians — and especially Canadian media executives — are programmed to say things like this, but here's where I really start to worry. Treading sensitively might sound like a prudent course for a politician, but it's a sure recipe for bad comedy, and I'd like to hope that whoever ends up making Fox's version of Little Mosque — no writer has been attached to the show, yet — will not tread lightly around any issues, Muslim, Christian, Buddhist, Jewish, Jain, Hindu or Zoroastrian.

I am not a fan of the CBC show, not because of its subject matter or setting, but because it's simply dire comedy, limp, lifeless, bad-dump-dump comic set-up and delivery that feels dated, and manages to channel the stalest essence of three-camera, laugh-track sitcoms in a single-camera, laugh-track-free setting — an unrewarding sleight-of-hand that Canadian comedy is too fond of replicating.

The best comedy is cruel and irreverent, and Fox, for all its many flaws (Family Guy, I'm looking at you) is aware of this irrevocable comic law. Anyone hoping to make a comedy that "treads sensitively" would have to either be a fool — or a Canadian.

Canadians like to flatter themselves that we're a funny people; we're funny, all right, but in all the wrong ways, I'm sorry to say.

"Old Yeller," anyone? Maybe shooting Joey (Joe Pingue) isn't necessary, but he is convinced he has rabies after being bitten by one of his fighting squirrels. He locks himself in a room, it's up to his wife and Cake (Michelle Nolden, Christopher Bolton) to get him out. And the chomping squirrel continues to be on the loose, sending more people to Doc's (Matt Gordon) office. 9:30 PM on SHO

Hank (Fred Ewanick) is psychic?? Apparently. When his vague dreams seem to predict the future, he's sure he's got a gift. Wanda and Brent (Nancy Robertson, Brent Butt) laugh it off, but one of them stops giggling when a prediction comes true. Lacey and Oscar (Gabrielle Miller, Eric Peterson) team up to fix a pothole in "Key to the Future." 11:30 AM on COM

The digits 1 through 9 will appear exactly once in each row, each column, and each zone. (A zone is an outlined 3x3 grid within the larger puzzle grid. There are nine of these zones in the puzzle.) Do not enter a digit into a box if it already appears elsewhere in the same 3x3 zone, or in the same row across the puzzle, or column down the puzzle.

Sheen, Richards split court costs

Charlie Sheen and his ex-wife Denise Richards have been ordered to split $150,000 in attorney's fees relating to their ongoing custody battle, imdb.com reports.

The pair divorced in 2006 but has since been embroiled in a bitter dispute over custody of their two daughters, three-year-old Sam and Lola, two. They have spent months in court battling over the amount of time Sheen has with his children and his right to choose the nannies for their kids — rather than allowing his ex-wife's employees into his home.

And now a judge has ordered Sheen and Richards to equally split the bill, which has been racked up by their ongoing legal feud.

Theron blasts 'sad' celebrities

Oscar winner Charlize Theron has blasted celebrities who constantly court media attention — branding their attitude "ugly," imdb.com reports.

The actress is sick of fame-obsessed stars, insisting she finds it "sad" to see people strive to be paparazzi fodder. She tells Britain's GQ magazine:

"It comes across as this really sad need for approval. I've heard people make comments like, 'You don't really want to be in the tabloids but you need to be for your career.' They believe it's actually important. It's not. It's ugly."

Bale best dressed

Christian Bale has been named as one of the best dressed men in the world, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The Dark Knight actor has been recognized for his love of sharp suits in a new style list by men's magazine Esquire. Grammy-award winning U.S. rapper Lupe Fiasco and Cameron Diaz's rumoured ex-boyfriend, environmentalist David Mayer de Rothschild, also joined Bale in the top 10.

Esquire fashion director Catherine Hayward said: "Powerful men know how to dress themselves and often stick to a uniform. Each of the men in our list has given a teasing twist to traditional tailoring and made the look entirely their own."

Diet made Hathaway cry

Anne Hathaway had to endure a grueling diet to slim down for her role in The Devil Wears Prada — insisting she and co-star Emily Blunt would “cry because they were so hungry,” imdb.com reports.

Hathaway plays a journalist who lands her first job at a high-profile fashion magazine — and her character is forced to slim down to fit in with her image-obsessed colleagues.

And the actress insists that although she is naturally thin, she still had a lot of weight to lose — and the constant dieting was a real struggle.

She says, “I was thin for my height. I was basically stuck with fruit, vegetables and fish. I wouldn’t recommend that.”

“Emily Blunt and I would clutch at each other and cry because we were so hungry.”

Miller's keepsake pyjamas

Sienna Miller has opened up about remembering her late Casanova co-star Heath Ledger, who died in January, usmagazine.com reports.

“Heath and I had this amazing night out in Venice with my mother,” Miller told Britain’s Telegraph Magazine. “It had been pouring with rain. Heath ran out in the middle of St. Mark’s square and we were running around, and I slipped over.”

Miller continued, “We all ran back to his (apartment) and he gave me these dry pyjamas to get home in,” Miller said. Two years later, Miller returned the pyjamas to Ledger. “When he came over to my house last November, and he was having trouble sleeping, I gave them back, to help him sleep,” she said.

But after he died, “I was so sad that I didn’t have these stupid pyjamas anymore, so his father found them to give to me,” Miller revealed.

Rupert apologizes

Outspoken actor Rupert Everett has apologized to British servicemen for branding them “whining wimps” — insisting his comments were “flippant and irresponsible,” imdb.com reports.

The Stardust actor, whose own father was a major in the British Army, made the controversial comments in a documentary filmed for the U.K.’s Channel 4 about 19th-century soldier Sir Richard Burton.

The star compared modern day soldiers to old-fashioned recruits, insisting British fighters in Iraq and Afghanistan constantly “whine” about facing the risk of death.
